

High School Five Plan a First Recording

Today is the day of long-haired singers, loud electric guitars and parents shaking their heads as they say, "What's this world coming to!" As time goes on an endless number of recording stars come into view, but only a few make it to the top. Of the thousands of boys who have grown long hair, taken up playing the guitar, or drums, there are five such boys who will undoubtedly make it to the top and stay there. They call themselves "The Proper Strangers" and are Torrance's gift to the world of popular singing.

The five boys are Paul Capitano Jr., 16, rhythm guitarist and singer; Randy Gibson, 16, bass guitarist; Roger Ellis, 17, lead guitarist; Tony Jimenez, 17, tambourine; and last but not least, James Francis McKeever III, 17, drummer and singer.

The five are all area high school students whose love (or shall we call it addiction) to music drew them together. Capitano is a B12 and Gibson an A-11 at Carson High. Ellis is a B12 at Torrance High. McKeever comes from Compton's Plus Tenth where he is a B12 and Jimenez is a B12 at Carson.

Guitarist Capitano's father, Paul Sr., is the group's manager.

The boys have become well-known and highly thought of in the Harbor and South Bay area. They have played for Sports Nights at Stephen M. White Junior High, Carson High and at The Grand where Torrance police sponsor weekly dances and several well-patronized eateries in the bay area.

After asking the group to describe each other, we came to the conclusion that this band has everything. Paul is their "Beautiful leader, that does what everyone wants." Randy is "An easy-going guy who doesn't like people who put teenagers down." Roger is "A down to earth full of rhythm sad sack." Tony was described as being a "Willing beach bum." They also have "A very individualist James Francis McKeever III who will play a song the way he feels it."

And not to be forgotten is the group's great financier, manager, fixer of amps and guitar refinisher, that little old slave-driver, Paul Capitano Sr., the guitarist's father. All kidding aside, the boys agree he's a great guy, and have a great respect for him.

The idea for the name "The Proper Strangers" was derived from the movie "Love With the Proper Stranger." The boys have been together for two years. The first year they made only enough money to slowly buy better equipment. But during that first year they received something more valuable to them than money... experience and a desire to continue.

Then came their first real break, Sept. 10, 1965. When they appeared in the televised contest for amateur bands on Emperor Hudson's Count Down '65, "The Proper Strangers" placed third in the finals.

Since then they have played at dances, private parties, "The Sea Witch," The Riviera Lounge, and the finals of the Teenage Fair. One of their most recent performances was at the popular Hullabaloo Club on the Sunset Strip.

Looking into the future, "The Proper Strangers" have plans of making a record. It will be one that was written by Paul and Jim, entitled "Will You Be There," with another of their songs "Boys Night Out," on the flipside.

While talking to the group opinions were expressed in regards to long hair and the success of a group. The boys agreed that long hair is expected but to achieve success you need talent. Watch for "The Proper Strangers" for they have the needed talent, and I'm sure you'll enjoy hearing them as much as I did.
